Subject: Farewell

Dear friends and colleagues,

Having failed to reach an amicable compromise with the new IT management structure regarding my work assignment, I have opted to retire somewhat earlier than expected. My last day on the books is March 30 and I will be taking some time off until then.

It has been a real pleasure knowing and working with all of you. I apologize for keeping this so close to my vest, but I hate goodbyes under good circumstances let alone circumstances like these. That said, I am looking forward to having more time off and pursuing a variety of interests. I hope our paths cross again.

-Eric
